

PRETORIA STUDENT LAW REVIEW (2018) 12

Pretoria Tydskrif vir Regstudente
Kgatišobaka ya Baithuti ba Molao ya Pretoria

Editor in chief:
Jurgen Zwecker

Editors:
Primrose E.R. Kurasha
Agnes Matasane
Vaughn Rajah
Kirstin Swanepoel

Pretoria University Law Press
———— PULP ————

2018

(2018) 12 Pretoria Student Law Review

Published by:

Pretoria University Law Press (PULP)

The Pretoria University Law Press (PULP) is a publisher, based in Africa, launched and managed by the Centre for Human Rights and the Faculty of Law, University of Pretoria, South Africa. PULP endeavours to publish and make available innovative, high-quality scholarly texts on law in Africa. PULP also publishes a series of collections of legal documents related to public law in Africa, as well as text books from African countries other than South Africa.

For more information on PULP, see www.pulp.up.ac.za

Printed and bound by:

Minit Print, Hatfield, Pretoria

Cover:

Design by Adebayo Okeowo

To submit articles, contact:

PULP
Faculty of Law
University of Pretoria
South Africa
0002
Tel: +27 12 420 4948
Fax: +27 12 362 5125
pulp@up.ac.za
www.pulp.up.ac.za

ISSN: 1998-0280

© 2018

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Editors' note	vi
By Jurgen Zwecker
Precarious life, judgement and a story of a stork	1
By Prof Karin van Marle
Towards an ethically organic jurisprudence: A paradigmatic re-imagining of South African constitutionalism	7
By Louis G. Hennop
The cogitation of the value of epistemic diversity in South African jurisprudence, as influenced by the project of intellectual history: Lessons from Rhodes must fall – 'All "Rhodes" lead to the colonisation of the mind'	18
By Tshepo K. Twala
'War is not always violent and violence is not always war' – An anecdote on how language and ultimately the law is used to perpetuate epistemic violence in South Africa	32
By Thato Maruapula
Exposing the true argument, a student's response to Willem Gravett: 'pericles should learn to fix a leaky pipe'	40
By Antonie Kloppe
Blind justice: An analysis of the impact of the symbolic lady justice in adjudication	58
By Mpho Mogadime

Towards land restitution through an African perspective on justice: A critical analysis of land reform and the role of re-imagination	66
By Mathabo Mohwaduba
Rethinking socio-economic rights in the South African constitutional framework from the perspective of human agency: Reflections of a law student	78
By Vuso Mhlanga
Towards a sexually free South Africa: A feminist and constitutional defence in favour of legalising prostitution through the right to bodily integrity	95
By Thabang Manamela
Lobola culture and the equality of women in Zimbabwe	112
By Priccilar Vengesayi
Damages for adultery: A legal misfit or a necessity?	136
By Shantel E. Ndebele
Understanding the beast of sexual harassment in the workplace	146
By Muano Nemavhidi
Youth unemployment: What role can corporate social responsibility play in curbing this social ill in Swaziland (Eswatini) and South Africa	159
By Simangele D. Mavundla

Developing the substance over form doctrine in taxation after the judgement in Commissioner for The South African Revenue Service v NWK By Johan Coertze	180
A constitutional democracy should provide for the legalisation of organ trading By Bianca Murray	201
The cost aspect of medical expert witnesses and the possible introduction of a medical expert witness panel in South Africa By Emma Tratschler	222

EDITORS' NOTE

It is with great joy that I, along with the editorial committee, present to you the reader, the 2018 Pretoria Student Law Review. In the past twelve years, the journal has gone from strength to strength and nowhere is this more evident than in this year's edition. We have received more submissions and published more articles than previous years. We have expanded the reach of the journal by including authors from not only outside UP but also outside the borders of South Africa.

Fittingly, the wide range of articles in this year's edition are topical, engaging and critical of the law. Most importantly, the articles spark conversation. If this is the quality of writing that Africa as a continent can produce, we as law students, young scholars and future legal practitioners can only reach new heights.

I am proud of the work that the authors have put into their articles, but especially I am proud of the editorial committee and the work they have done to ensure that the PSLR delivers quality articles. The role of an editor is difficult, time consuming and often thankless and therefore I would like to thank the 2018 editorial committee - Primrose E.R. Kurasha, Agnes Matasane, Vaughn Rajah and Kirstin Swanepoel. Without your hard work and dedication to this journal, nothing would have been possible, it has been a privilege to work with all of you.

Furthermore, I would like to thank Prof Karin van Marle for her guiding hand that shepherded us throughout the highs and lows of this year. To Lizette Hermann, thank you for your dedication to the PSLR.

About the cover, I would like to thank Adebayo Okeowo for his submission. The cover and back page compliment the Year of the Women as celebrated throughout the year by the Law Faculty and UP Law House in particular.

Turning to the future, it is with pride that I can say that I leave the PSLR in the custody of strong hands and even sharper minds.

To you future author, I implore you to continue writing. To you the reader I say expand your mind, question all that is in front of you – for this is the only way we, as scholars, grow.

Jurgen Zwecker
Managing editor
2018

NOTE ON CONTRIBUTIONS

We invite all students to submit material for the eleventh edition of the Pretoria Student Law Review. We accept journal articles, case notes, commentary pieces, response articles or any other written material on legal topics. You may even consider converting your research memos or a dissertation chapter into an article.

Please visit our website at www.pslr.co.za for more information.

You may submit your contribution to:

pretoriastudentlawreview@gmail.com

Alternatively you may submit your contribution by hand at the office of the Dean of the Law Faculty:

Dean's Office
Faculty of Law
4th Floor
Law Building
University of Pretoria
Pretoria
0002